Life Story

Michael D. Jackson was born on April 8, 1958 to Azel Jackson Sr. and Flora A. Jackson in Boley, Oklahoma. He was the fourth child born to this union. One parent preceded him in death. One parent is survived.

Michael D. Jackson is survived by three sisters: Paula K. Jackson of Oklahoma City; Tamika Jackson of Oakland, California; London Jackson of Sacramento, California; brothers: Azel Jackson Jr. of Oklahoma City; Gonzales Jackson of Oklahoma City; and Darrell L. Jackson who preceded him in death; David G. Jackson of Portland, Oregon; Anthony D. Jackson who preceded him in death.

Michael D. Jackson has one daughter, Charline Glover; four granddaughters: Michelle A. Glover, Sherrelle B. Woods, Victoria J. Glover, and Tomiyah J. Battle, all of Oklahoma City; one great granddaughter, Aunerregina Watson.

Michael D. Jackson attended Oklahoma City Public School and was a graduate of Northwest Classen High School. He played basketball and other sports. He coached a Little League Basketball and Football. He loved San Francisco, 49ers and was a T.V. Coach, one of the best. He loved music, movies and was a friend to all the Ladies he knew. Known by his family and friends as, Michael, Sweet Life, Little Mike, etc., family was his most enjoyable times of his life along with his friends.

Michael was in a accident in 1985, while he set out to get better, he knew he would beat the odds. It was told to Michael that he has lived longer than anyone in his condition, thanks to his family and friends.

Michael was Godly, he had a good relationship with our father, God, he often prayed of others and a passion of giving gifts and show his older brother that this was all he was missing. From good and bad, he conquered it all, and he did it with love.
