

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The family of Daykordeo "D.K." Kemp would like to thank you for your condolences and sympathy in our time of mourning. Words of thanks seem inadequate for all the kindness that has been bestowed upon our family during this difficult time.

We are grateful for the encouraging visits, comforting calls, and the sincere words of solace. May God bless you richly for blessing us.

"Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted." – Matthew 5:4

"For God gave us a spirit not of fear but of power and love and self-control." – 2 Timothy 1:7

WORDS OF WISDOM

"A man who works with his hands is a laborer; a man who works with his hands and his brain is a craftsman; but a man who works with his hands, and his brain, and his heart is an artist."

"What's the point of catching up when we can keep in touch?" – D.K.

OBITUARY

Daykordeo Marino Kemp, affectionately known to many as “D.K.”, was a loving son, brother, grandson, cousin, and friend. He was born to Angela and Delcardio Kemp on September 20, 1989 in Oklahoma City (NW). He passed away on March 21, 2023 in Oklahoma City at 33 years old.

D.K. could accomplish anything he set out to do. At an early age, he found a love for music, art, and sports. As a toddler, he would crawl into the kitchen to get pots and pans for his makeshift drum set. At four years old, his grandmother Lovenia prayed over his hands and then he was able to play the piano by ear the rest of his days. He was also a talented visual artist and star basketball and baseball player.

As a talented musician, rapper, and producer, Kizzy spent time traveling the country performing with friends, opening for artists like Soulja Boy, and running from screaming, adoring fans. Just like his Grandpa Elmer Kemp, Daykordeo was known everywhere he went. So many had the privilege of experiencing his bright smile, great hugs, and encouraging words. And of course, there’s nothing like laughing because of something silly, outrageous, or witty he said. A natural comedian, he was the most charming person you’d ever meet.

Whether he was studying to be a pharmacy technician or working in the OKC Thunder and Dodgers team stores, music was his true occupation. Only love for God, family, and friends came before his love for music.

Daykordeo is preceded in death by his grandfathers Elmer Kemp (paternal) and Norman Randle (maternal) and stepbrother, Cliff Warfield, Jr. He is survived by his mother, Angela Warfield; his sister, Andeneshea “NeNe” Kemp (LaVelle Compton); his grandparents: Doris Kemp, Edwin and Lovenia House; his father, Delcardio Kemp; his stepfather, Cliff Warfield; and a great host of uncles, aunts, cousins, friends, and loved ones.
